Sun School of Satoshi LLC: Operating Agreement

Oct 22, 2026

Draft for review by an Illinois business attorney before signing. Items in [brackets] are blanks for the signer to complete.

1. Parties and formation

This Operating Agreement is made on [date] (the "Effective Date") by Justin Allen (the "Member") for Sun School of Satoshi LLC, an Illinois limited liability company (the "Company"). It replaces the default rules of the Illinois Limited Liability Company Act wherever the Act allows an agreement to do so.

Purpose. The Company may carry on any lawful business. Its main business is teaching Bitcoin, money, and business skills, and developing and selling educational courses and related content.

2. Ownership and capital

- The Member owns 100% of the membership interests in the Company.

- Initial capital. The Member contributes $[amount] in cash and [describe any property, such as curriculum or domain names] on [date]. The Manager records every contribution in the Company's books.
- The Member does not have to contribute more. Any later contribution is voluntary and is recorded.
- No interest is paid on capital, and capital is returned only through distributions under Section 4.
- Membership interests are not issued as certificates.

3. Management and authority

- The Company is manager-managed. Justin Allen is the sole Manager.
- The Manager runs the business. The Manager may sign contracts, open accounts in the Company's name, hire and pay people, license content, and spend Company money in the ordinary course.
- Only the Member, in a signed writing, may: sell all or most of the Company's assets, merge it, dissolve it, admit a new member, or amend this Agreement.
- The Manager serves until the Member removes the Manager in writing, or the Manager resigns, dies, or becomes unable to serve. The Member then names a successor, or Section 5 applies.
- No one else may sign for the Company or use its accounts unless the Manager authorizes it in writing.

4. Money, taxes and books

- Bank accounts. All Company money goes into accounts in the Company's own name and tax ID. It is never mixed with personal money or with the money of Block Wall Street LLC, Building 4 Our Future, or any other organization.
- Distributions. The Manager decides when to distribute cash to the Member, after paying expenses, debts, and a reasonable reserve.
- Taxes. While the Company has one Member, it is treated for federal income tax as a disregarded entity unless the Member elects otherwise, and the Member reports its income. [Confirm with a tax preparer.] The Company uses its own Employer Identification Number.

- Books and records. The fiscal year is the calendar year. The Manager keeps the Articles, this Agreement, tax returns, bank statements, and contracts for at least seven years.
- Annual report. The Manager files the Company's annual report with the Illinois Secretary of State by the end of its anniversary month. The first is due around January 2027.

5. Transfers, succession and ending the company

- The Member may transfer all or part of the interest only by a signed written assignment. A person who receives an interest becomes a Member only after signing this Agreement or an amended version.
- Adding a member requires a signed amendment stating each person's percentage, capital, and voting rights.
- If the Member dies or cannot act. The Member names [successor name] to take over the interest and manage the Company. If no one is named, the Member's legal representative holds the interest and has [90] days to continue the Company or wind it up.
- Ending the company. The Company ends when the Member signs a decision to dissolve it, a court orders it, or Illinois law requires it. The Manager then pays debts, distributes what remains to the Member, and files Articles of Dissolution with the Secretary of State.

6. Liability and separation from other organizations

- Limited liability. The Member and Manager are not personally responsible for the Company's debts only because of their role. To keep that protection, the Company signs contracts in its own name, keeps its own accounts, and keeps its own records.
- Indemnity. The Company will cover the Manager and Member for good-faith acts for the Company, to the extent of Company assets. This does not cover fraud, willful misconduct, or knowing violations of law.
- Separate organizations. The Company is separate from Block Wall Street LLC, Building 4 Our Future, and the New Black Wall Street Initiative. None of them speaks for another or guarantees another's debts.

- Dealings with Building 4 Our Future. Building 4 Our Future is a charity. Any license, service, space, or sale between it and the Company must be in writing, on terms at least as favorable to Building 4 Our Future as fair market value, and approved by its independent directors. The Company will not use that charity's money, name, donor lists, or programs for private gain. The Manager will tell the charity's board in writing about any director, officer, or founder of the charity (or their family) who holds an interest or role in the Company.
- Dealings with other related companies. Any arrangement with Block Wall Street LLC or another affiliate is in writing and priced at fair value.

7. General terms

- Illinois law governs this Agreement.
- It is the whole agreement about the Company's ownership and management. Any change must be in writing and signed by the Member.
- If a court finds one part unenforceable, the rest stays in effect.
- Signatures may be on paper or electronic, and copies count as originals.
